

Ownership restrictions on media should be strengthened, not relaxed.

In a country with antitrust laws designed to limit the power of companies within their field, it is incomprehensible that completely different logic would be used as the basis of FCC policy. Diversity of opinion is essential to the functioning of our free, open, and democratic society.